A LEISURE HOUR'S READING

A FIFTY-CENT BET WON.

Some days since a saloon keeper on Gratiot avenue paid certain parties in Chicago $25 for a stuffed lion to add to the attractions of his saloon, and the other morning as the place was being scrubbed out the lion was placed at the front door to keep him out of the wet. Half a block down the street a farmer was having his wagon repaired, and a big bulldog was chained to the hind axletree. He grew uneasy the minute the lion was rolled out, and it needed only a few encouraging words from the boys to render him half frantic. He growled and plunged and tore around and attracted quite a crowd, among which was a man who remarked:

"That's a purty brave dog of yours, stranger."

"Brave! I'd like to see the man or beast he wouldn't tackle," replied the owner.

"I dunno about that. Never saw a dog yet who'd stand before a lion."

"Well, here's one who'd stand before two lions. See how anxious he is to get there?"

"Yes, but his puts that on because he's chained. If he was loose you couldn't get him within a rod of that specimen."

"Couldn't eh? Maybe you want to hear yourself talk."

"Well, I dunno. I'm opposed to betting, card playing, dancing, and all that, but seeing you are rather sassy about this, I've got half a dollar here which says that you can't get that dog to go within six feet of that lion."

"Put up the money—put up the money!" shouted the farmer as he went down into his own pocket after the coin.

The money was put up, the crowd fell back and the farmer's face wore a smile of triumph as he still further excited the dog and then slipped his collar. With a yell of rage the "canine" made a bee line for the king of beasts, and in another moment there was reason for a terrific yell of applause. Dog and lion filled the air, so to say. The lion was rolled over and over, grabbed by the tail and shaken around, drawn across the street and back by the ear, and when the dog finally let up on the corpse the battleground was covered with hair and hay and sawdust and glass eyes. At that moment the saloon keeper rushed out, a policeman came up, and for five minutes the air was rent with shouts and expostulations.

"It was all in fun," explained the farmer.

"Dot lions cost me $25 in Sheecago I'll protested the saloon man.

"Who put up this job?" demanded the officer as he glared around on the crowd.

By and by a deep silence fell upon the crowd, and in a voice which had only kindness in it the owner of the lion said he must have his $25 or he would start for the Police Court. The policeman said it was certainly a case for the courts, and the crowd said the farmer might have known what would happen. He protested, but finally came to time, and when he had passed over a $10 bill and given his note for the balance, he had only one sentence to utter. That was:

"Now, then, I'll give any of you five acres of land to put me face to face with the outlaw who put up this job on a hard-working, innocent man."—Detroit Free Press.

In a Cincinnati daily we notice that Mr. Tim Gleeson, ex-member of the Council from the Fourth Ward of that city, says he suffered terribly with rheumatism all last winter and spring. He tried all kinds of liniments and medicines without any benefit until he used St. Jacobs Oil, the first application of which insured a full night's repose, and its subsequent use entirely cured him. It is a great remedy.—Akron (Ohio) Beacon.

TOO FRENCH.

The mystic letters written on visiting cards are a source of bewilderment to the Congressmen from rural districts, who cannot decipher their meaning. Once that stalwart Kentuckian, Senator McCreery, met a foppish young constituent, who had just returned from Paris, and said to him: "I received your card the other day. I recognized your father's name which is the same as yours, and supposed that it was his son; but what did the letters P. P., written in a corner, mean?" "Why, Mr. Senator," replied the traveled man, "it is customary in Paris to write the initials of certain words on leaving cards. For example, had I been going away, I should have written P. P. C., the initials of Pour prendre congé—to take leave. As it was, calling myself, I write P. P., the initials of En Personne—in person." "Oh!" said McCreery, "I understand."

A week or so afterward the two met again, and the young man said, "Senator, I received your card, but I couldn't comprehend what the letters S. B. A. N. in the corner meant. Pray interpret them." "With pleasure," said McCreery, his eyes twinkling with humor. "S. B. A. N. are the initials of Sent By a Nigger!" The young man tried to laugh, but really could not see the point of the inscription. Others did.—Washington Correspondent Boston Journal.

PRECISE YOUNG BOY.

Hamburg & Seersucker advertised for a smart boy, and they got him. They put the smart boy behind the counter. The following is the conversation that passed between him and his first customer: Customer (picking up a pair of gloves)—"What are these?" Smart boy—"Gloves." Customer—"Yes, yes, but what do you ask for them?"—Smart boy—"We don't ask for them at all: customers do that." Customer—"You don't understand me. How do they come?" Smart boy—"Why, they come in pairs, of course." Customer—"No, no; how high do they come?" Smart boy—"Just above the wrist, I believe." Customer—"But what do you get for them?" Smart boy—"Me? I don't get nothing for 'em. Boss pockets all the money." Customer (losing patience)—"What is the price of these gloves per pair?" Smart boy—"Oh, that's yer lay, is it? Why didn't you say so afore? One dollar." That smart boy is too smart to exhale his smartness in a dry goods store. He should go to Congress right off.—Boston Transcript.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 31, 1879.

Gentlemen.—Having been afflicted for a number of years with indigestion and general debility, by the advice of my doctor I used Hop Bitters, and must say they afforded me almost instant relief. I am glad to be able to testify in their behalf. THOS. G. KNOX.

A DISQUALIFICATION.

Old Mose met Sam Johnsing on Austin avenue a few days ago, and said to him:

"I hear, Sam, you are gwine to lead ter de alter one ob Austin's fairest daughters. Am dat de fact?"

"Uncle Mose, hit am de fact dat I has been payin' my distresses ter de lubly and accomplished Miss Matildy Flapjack, but de tender relations what has desisted between us am sobered foreber, sah."

"Did she kick yer, or did she only set de dog on yer?"

"No, sah. She lubs me yit, and she wanted me ter call on her twict a day, sah, but she libs next door to de cullud lady who has a wash bill agin me, so I jess made up my mind to transfer my defections ter some udder lady what am, sah, more favorably located."—Texas Siftings.

FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

SCAMP'S SURPRISE.

I had a surprise to-day. When I got up I was surprised too. It is Christmas, so my master tells me. I expect Christmas means having a good time. Don't it mean that?

The first thing I saw when I came into the parlor was a big tree all full of pretty things. It's funny to see a tree all fixed up like that. Then my master said, "Scamp, come here, I have got a surprise for you." What do you think it was? Why, a big box. It was marked, "To Mr. Scamp." My master told me it came from New York. Now my cousin Amy lives in New York. Of course, she is not my cousin, only my master's; but it is all the same. I knew she sent me the surprise.

My master opened the box and took out the surprise. What do you think it was? Why, a blanket for me. It was all trimmed with ribbons, and inside it was all fur. My master put the surprise on my back and tied the ribbons. The fur tickled me, and I laughed. They all thought I barked, but I did not; I was laughing.

My master said I looked so fine he would let me go out on the side walk.

When we got out of the house, a boy came along the street, with a tin horn. He blew it right in my ear, and it scared me so I fell off the pavement into the snow-drift. I rolled over and over. I felt myself going down, down, down, and I barked. My master whistled to me, but I could not get out.

At last he came and lifted me from the snow-bank. You should have seen "the Surprise." It was all wet, and the fur was spoiled. My master, as he took me into the house, was saying something about "Pride getting a fall." My name is not Pride, but Scamp.—JOHN S SHRIVER in Our Little Ones for January.

THE CHRISTMAS TURKEY.

"My son," said Mistress Fox,
"You're clumsy as an ox.
'Tis almost Christmas time,
The merry bells will chime;
But we may starve,
While Dobbs will carve
A fine fat turkey on his table:
Go bring that bird, if you are able.
You are so lazy,
For play so crazy,
No game you ever brought,
No chicken ever caught,
For Christmas or Thanksgiving,
Or for your daily living."
Young Foxy felt quite sad,
When called a clumsy lad,
And just at night,
With all his might,
He ran to Farmer Dobbs's yard,
And found the turkey off his guard.
Without a word
He shook the bird;
Then picked it up in his teeth again,
And took for home the shortest route
Quick as he could run.
"You're no ox;
I'm proud of you," said Mistress Fox.
"Of name and fame you are the winner,
And we have got our Christmas dinner;
While Farmer Dobbs and his three men
Must dine upon an ancient hen."

CARTER MEDICINE CO., NEW YORK.

The Sun for 1882.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. THE SUN'S light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

THE SUN of 1868 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of THE SUN. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modeled after THE SUN. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of THE SUN'S example.

THE SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with THE SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of THE SUN'S political course.

THE WEEKLY SUN gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequaled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete THE WEEKLY SUN, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read and like THE SUNDAY SUN, each number of which is a Golconda of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for THE SUN.

Our terms are as follows.

For the Daily SUN, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight-page, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.
